

Beautiful Stories for Children

Copyright © 2003 Christian Liberty Press

Christian Liberty Press

Beautiful Stories for Children

Copyright © 2003 Christian Liberty Press

CHRISTIAN LIBERTY PRESS

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS

Original Title: Sanders' Union Reader Number Two for Primary Schools and Families by Charles W. Sanders

Original Publisher: Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., Copyright © 1873

Previously published as Christian Liberty Eclectic Reader – Book C
by Christian Liberty Press

Beautiful Stories for Children, Copyright © 2003, 1992 by Christian Liberty Press
September 2017 edition

All rights reserved. Copies of this book may be made by the purchaser for personal or immediate family use only. Reproduction or transmission of this product—in any form or by any means—for use outside of the immediate family is not allowed without prior permission from the publisher. Brief quotations embodied in critical articles or reviews are permitted.

Copyright © 2003 Christian Liberty Press

CHRISTIAN LIBERTY PRESS

502 West Euclid Avenue
Arlington Heights, Illinois 60004-5402

www.christianlibertypress.com

Author: Charles W. Sanders

Revised and edited by: Michael J. McHugh and Edward J. Shewan

Copyediting: Diane C. Olson

Cover design and graphics: Ron Ferris

Lessons 62, 66, and 67, Copyright © 1991 by Sheryl Kramer. Used with permission.

ISBN: 978-1-930092-31-0 (print)
978-1-629820-72-9 (eBook PDF)

Printed in the United States of America

PREFACE

We encourage teachers to use Beautiful Stories for Children with students in the primary grades, especially beginning with the second grade. This particular reader is designed to improve the reading skills and comprehension of those students.

To be able to read is to have the foundation for all subsequent education. The child whose literacy training is deficient may become frustrated and desperate, which may lead to problems in other areas of life.

As we look at the readers of days gone by we find that the biblical standard was followed. Such readers featured the finest British and American authors who emphasized God, morality, the wonders of creation, and respect for one's country. Beautiful Stories for Children seeks to follow this pattern of the past.

Most lessons begin with a list of vocabulary words, which the teacher should go over with the student. Once the child learns their pronunciations and meanings, the student may begin reading the story or poem that follows.

It is our prayer that this book will give children the joy that is to be associated with "good reading," and that the knowledge imparted will help "make wise the simple" (Psalm 19:7).

Michael J. McHugh
Christian Liberty Press
2003

Contents

	PREFACE	iii
Lesson 1	The Good Scholars	1
Lesson 2	The Boys and the Bird's Nest	4
Lesson 3	Sarah and Her Kittens	6
Lesson 4	Mary and Her Bird's Nest	8
Lesson 5	Matt and His Dog Shadow	10
Lesson 6	The Busy Bees	13
Lesson 7	The Bulb and the Flowers	15
Lesson 8	God Made All Things	17
Lesson 9	The Rabbit	19
Lesson 10	The Greedy Girl	21
Lesson 11	Frank Carving His Name on a Tree	23
Lesson 12	My Darling Brother	25
Lesson 13	The Kind Little Girl	27
Lesson 14	Lucy Feeding the Poultry	29
Lesson 15	Anna and Her Lamb	31
Lesson 16	The First Rose of Spring	33
Lesson 17	The Selfish Boy and the Kindhearted Girl	35
Lesson 18	A Kiss for a Smack	37
Lesson 19	Frank Riding in His Carriage	40
Lesson 20	James and His Dog, Dash	43
Lesson 21	"Thou Shalt Not Steal"	45
Lesson 22	Little Things	48
Lesson 23	The Loving Children	49
Lesson 24	Lost Children	52

Lesson 25	Central Park	55
Lesson 26	Jeff Learns a Lesson	58
Lesson 27	Colin Assists His Mother	61
Lesson 28	The Little Chimney Sweep	64
Lesson 29	The May Queen	66
Lesson 30	Joelle's Present	68
Lesson 31	The Boy and His Dog Rover	71
Lesson 32	The Truth Teller	73
Lesson 33	How Time Is Measured	76
Lesson 34	The Helpful Birds	79
Lesson 35	The Oranges Jordan Sold	82
Lesson 36	Amanda's Visit to the Country	86
Lesson 37	The Difficult Task.....	90
Lesson 38	The Spring Time	93
Lesson 39	The Silly Lamb	95
Lesson 40	The Milk Givers	97
Lesson 41	Gavin's Wheelbarrow	99
Lesson 42	The Way to Become Wise	102
Lesson 43	The Noble Dog	104
Lesson 44	The Squirrel's Nest	107
Lesson 45	Lily's Happy Home	110
Lesson 46	The Last Request	111
Lesson 47	Jade's Pet Fawn	114
Lesson 48	The Lost Pencil	117
Lesson 49	The Sleigh Ride.....	119
Lesson 50	The Stubborn Girl and the Goat	122
Lesson 51	The Cat and the Canary	124

Lesson 52	Clara's Choice	127
Lesson 53	How a Servant Was Cured of Stealing	129
Lesson 54	The Little Conqueror	132
Lesson 55	Brian and the Bricks	135
Lesson 56	Peter and the Hornet's Nest	137
Lesson 57	The Ride on the Ponies	140
Lesson 58	A Lesson in Geography	143
Lesson 59	The Boy and the Acorn	146
Lesson 60	The Crows and the Mussels	147
Lesson 61	The Little Flower Garden	149
Lesson 62	Marriage	153
Lesson 63	The Five Senses	155
Lesson 64	The Two Market Boys	159
Lesson 65	An American Painter	162
Lesson 66	We're Having a Baby!	164
Lesson 67	The Family	166
Lesson 68	Learn to Toe the Mark	168
Lesson 69	The Works of God, Perfect	170
Lesson 70	Signs That Seldom Fail	172
Lesson 71	The Boy and the Robin	174
Lesson 72	The Child's Prayer	176
Lesson 73	Secrets of Nature	178
Lesson 74	The Little Soldier	180
Lesson 75	A Voice in the Woods	182

LESSON 1

scholar—pupil; learner

teacher—one who teaches; instructor

through—to the end mean—stand for study—use one's mind to learn correctly—right; as it should be difficult—hard; not easy

marks—periods (.), commas (,), semi-colons (;), hyphens (-), em dashes (—)

pauses—stops; rests

The Good Scholars

Emma: Teacher, may Charles and I each have a new book? We have read this book through three times.

Teacher: Do you think you can spell all the words in that book, and tell me what they mean?

Emma: I think we can spell them all correctly; but I do not know if we can tell you what they all mean.

Teacher: Well, Emma, please spell the word “guilt,” and tell me what it means.

Emma: G-u-i-l-t—guilt; it means “shame.”

Teacher: Charles, please spell “neat.”

Charles: N-e-a-t—neat; it means “in order.”

Teacher: Very well. Emma, you may spell “catch.”

Emma: C-a-t-c-h—catch; “to take hold of.”

Teacher: Charles, you may spell “climb.”

Charles: C-l-i-m-b—climb; “to go up.”

Teacher: Very well done. You shall each have a new book. But you will have to study, because you will find that some words are difficult in this book.

Emma: Thank you, Teacher. When we get through this book, we will try to spell them all and tell you what they mean.

Teacher: Yes; but you will have to learn how to say each word correctly. You will also need to learn how marks and pauses are used.

Charles: Emma, I think we can learn them, too, if we study hard.

Teacher: I am sure you will both do your best for God's glory.

LESSON 2

hunt—look for; search caught—trapped; seized started— began; set out quarrel—fight; dispute wished—desired struggle—contest; strife blame—find fault with sorry—grieved cruel—unfeeling wicked—sinful

The Boys and the Bird's Nest

Two boys, who were brothers, went into the woods one day to hunt for a bird's nest. After looking for some time, they found one on a low branch of a tree, with a bird on the nest.

One boy crept up behind the tree and caught the bird before it could fly from the nest. The other boy took the nest, which had four blue eggs in it. Then they both started for home.

While they were on their way, the boys began to quarrel about the bird; for they both wished to have it. During the struggle, the bird flew away, and the boys stepped on the nest and broke the bird's eggs. The boys then began to argue and blame each other for the loss of the bird and its nest of eggs.

When the boys returned home, their mother asked them to tell her what they had been doing and why they were arguing. The boys told her how they had taken the bird with its nest of eggs and how they had begun to quarrel.

Their mother said, "My sons, I am sorry that you have been so cruel and wicked. It is cruel to rob a bird of its nest, and it is wicked for brothers to quarrel."

Both of these boys failed to remember that the Bible directs us to be slow to anger. The Book of Proverbs tells us that, "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." (Proverbs 16:32)

LESSON 3

watches—looks at except—leaving out

gently—kindly; lovingly

rough—harsh; not smooth chase—run after lively—active; full of life

awake—not asleep

rolled—tumbled pulled—drew stitches—links of yarn

nibbling—biting with small, gentle bites

fierce—cruel; terrible ready—prepared

Sarah and Her Kittens

Sarah has a cat that has four little kittens. One is white, another is reddish-brown, and two are gray.

Sarah takes good care of them. Everyday she puts some milk in a dish and watches the kittens while they lap it up.

Her favorite kitten is a dark gray, except for a white patch around its right eye; so she calls it "Patch." When Sarah picks it up lovingly, it begins to purr and lick her hand with its rough tongue. If she holds Patch still for a while, and gently passes her hand over its back, it will fold its paws, curl itself up, and go to sleep.

When Patch is awake, it is a lively little kitten and will play with pieces of paper or anything it finds on the floor. If Sarah ties a string to a ball of yarn, and then rolls it around on the floor, Patch will chase after it, as though it were a mouse.

One day Patch got into Sarah's workbasket and rolled a ball of yarn and some spools of thread out on the floor. Then the playful kitten pulled the needles and stitches out of the scarf she was knitting. Sarah did not like what Patch did, but it made her laugh.

Patch is not old enough to hunt; but, when it hears a sound like nibbling or scratching, it will perk up its ears and look very fierce. If Sarah's dog comes into the room, the kitten will arch up its back, and raise up its hair, as though it were very angry—getting ready to fight. God has surely made kittens a lot of fun and very interesting.

LESSON 4

near—close by peep—sneak a look called—named broken—cracked; ruined around—about burst—broke forth

ruined—destroyed; broken hatched—come out; been born away—off

Mary and Her Bird's Nest

A bird came and built its nest in a bush, near the house where Mary lived. She would go and peep into the nest to look at the bird's little blue eggs; she called it her bird's nest.

One day her mother said, “Mary, you must not go and look at the bird’s nest again for three weeks.” Mary was a good girl and did as she was told. She did not go near the nest during that whole time.

After three weeks, her mother said, “Now, Mary, you may go and look at your bird’s nest.”

Mary ran out to the bush; but she saw nothing but broken shells all around the nest. She burst into tears, ran into the house, and said, “O mother, my little blue eggs are all ruined!”

“No, my child,” said her mother, “the baby birds have hatched and flown away! After all, little baby birds cannot live forever in tiny eggshells. The birds have left their nest so they can begin to enjoy the gift of life more fully.

“Some day you will grow up and fly away from the home of your youth, like these little birds. Lord willing, you will be ready to live a wonderful life.”

LESSON 5

gentle—mild; meek

allow—let happen

garden—rich spot of ground to raise fruit, flowers, etc.

charge—care; trust

bellow—make a loud, hollow cry seize—catch; grasp likely—probably collar—neck-band

reward—repay; give a prize

faithful—loyal; trustworthy

Matt and His Dog Shadow

I will now tell you a story about Matt and his dog Shadow. Shadow was a large, strong dog; yet it was so gentle that it would let Matt jump upon its back and ride.

Shadow was a good dog to have around the house, for it would not allow the pigs and hens to go into the garden.

When Matt and his sister Ellen went out into the fields, Shadow would always go with them, as though he had the entire charge of them.

One day, as Matt and Ellen were going through a field, an angry bull began to bellow and run at them. At first, the children did not see the bull until Shadow started to bark. Then Matt yelled, "Shadow, seize it!"

Right away Shadow sprang at the bull, grabbed it by the nose, and held the bull's nose tight. Matt and Ellen ran out of the field, and then Shadow let the bull go.

After that, Matt and Ellen ran to the house and told their father what Shadow had done. Their father replied, "It was a good thing that Shadow went with you; for, if your dog had not been there, most likely you would have been killed."

"Shadow is a good dog!" cried Matt and Ellen, both at the same time.

"Yes," said their father; "and I will buy a brass collar, and you may put it around Shadow's neck as a reward for his faithful care over you."

"We are happy that you are going to reward Shadow," said Matt, "for he is faithful."